

Columbia City Station

Columbia City Station was part of building Central Link. It is a street-level station with side platforms in the center of Martin Luther King Jr. Way South. Patrons can access the station from South Alaska or South Edmunds streets by crosswalk. Pedestrian street improvements along South Edmunds Street enhance the connection to Columbia City. The plaza at the northeast corner of Edmunds and Martin Luther King Jr. Way South has amenities such as landscaping, public art, seating, bicycle parking and lighting.

Mode

Commuter rail

Highlights

Start of service: 2009

Location: Martin Luther King Jr. Way South between South Alaska and South Edmunds streets

Projected ridership: 2,900 daily boardings in 2020

